The Tariff Bill's Legality. Washington, Oct. 24 .- Secretary Windom said that he knew nothing officially about the protests against the legality of the McKinley tariff bill. "I do not," he said, "regard it as the province of an executive officer to question the constitutionality of acts of congress. It is for him to enforce the law as he finds it and not to determine questions affecting its legality. I am therefore executing the McKinley act as l find it, and shall continue to do so unless a competent legal tribunal, such as the supreme court, decides the law unconstitutional. It is not for me he discharged the weapon and shot a to question the validity of any of the man named Baldwin, who was a block signatures to the bill as enrolled, neither is it for me to determine whether the bill signed by the president did or did not in fact pass the lower house, much less is it for me to determine whether the omission of the tobacco or drawback section or any other provision of the bill invalidates the law as a whole. As I understand it, the act of October 1, 1890, is the law of the land. My duty, therefore, is plain, and I shall execute its provisions to the best of my ability. Being merely an executive officer of the government, I must enforce it as I find it. Anyhow, the tobacco schedule does not take effect until January 1, so if congress desires to refund 2 cents a pound on all the tobacco on hand when the law takes effect it has ample time to legislate to that end."

It must now be settled whether it be lawful to go behind this certification and ascertain what was really the bill passed by the two houses.

The Corn Crop. CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 23. The Farmers' Review says that a careful examination of the estimates furnished by correspondents reveals the fact that the corn crop is turning out somewhat better than expected. The crop in Michigan and Wisconsin is larger than last year; in Minnesota and Dakota almost as large. Other states, especially Kansas and Nebraska, show a considerable shortage. In several counties in Kansas and Nebraska corn is nearly a total failure. The Review gives estimates on the production of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas, and says, after deducting from the gross product a large percentage of unmerchantable corn, the estimate of the total marketable in the states named is 825, 935, 253 bushels. The condition of the crop in the remaining states not covered by the report is estimated at about 85 per cent of an average.

A Bill in the United States Supreme Court to Determine the Boundary Line Between the Two States-A Wreck on the Santa Fe Line-None Killed, but Quite a Number Injured-Indian Schools-Quarantine Against Criminals - Silver Purchases.

Nebraska-Iowa Boundary Line. Washington, Oct. 25 .- Attorney-General Leese has filed a bill in the supreme court to determine the boundary line between the states of Nebraska and Iowa. The question disputable was occasioned, the bill recites, by the shifting of the bed and channel of the Missouri river. The document on file with the clerk of the supreme court contains nine pages of judiciary print and is occupied in the beginning by a description of the well known boundary states and which is found in the law of the United States, revised statutes, containing the Iowa admission bill. Then follows a recitation of the history of the work in the United States land Utah that the whole thing is a sham, in 1851, and which is a matter of record in the office of the state's attorney general and the surveyor. The boundary line recognized by congress when Nebraska was admitted to statehood in 1867 is then recited. There is given a statement of the changes of the course of the current, bed and channel of the Missouri river which have occurred since 1851, when they began. A very minute description of the changes of the river along and in sections 16, 17, 21, 22, 23 and 28 in Iowa is made, and it is alleged that they have, under the boundary lines now recognized by the United States, given the state of Nebraska jurisdiction over a part of them, and the supreme court is asked to grant the usual writ of subpœna commanding the state of Iowa to appear before this court and answer the premises and stand to perform and abide such order and decree as to this of bureaus for the administration of: court as shall be meet and equitable.
